

Save the planet

Student card

1 Work with your partner or others in your group. You are environmental experts with a particular interest in the part of the world you have chosen.

An international environmental charity has agreed to give $10 million to the environmental group who can make the most convincing case for protecting their part of the world at a major environmental conference.

Prepare a short presentation to make your case. Start by making notes under each of the four headings below:

1 Which part of the world would you like to see protected, and what is special about the place?

2 What particular threats does this place face in the twenty-first century?

3 What will happen if this place is not protected from the threats you mention?

4 How do you intend to use the money to help protect the place?

2 Choose a speaker and make your case to the rest of the conference. Be impassioned and persuasive. Be ready to politely prevent any interruptions.

Save the planet

Student card

1 Work with your partner or others in your group. You are environmental experts with a particular interest in the part of the world you have chosen.

An international environmental charity has agreed to give $10 million to the environmental group who can make the most convincing case for protecting their part of the world at a major environmental conference.

Prepare a short presentation to make your case. Start by making notes under each of the four headings below:

1 Which part of the world would you like to see protected, and what is special about the place?

2 What particular threats does this place face in the twenty-first century?

3 What will happen if this place is not protected from the threats you mention?

4 How do you intend to use the money to help protect the place?

2 Choose a speaker and make your case to the rest of the conference. Be impassioned and persuasive. Be ready to politely prevent any interruptions.